

Hanna establishes new headquarters

Jim Coleman Company, which recently acquired the Hanna brand, announced that Hanna equipment manufacturing has moved into a new facility in Houston.

Hanna equipment manufacturing will take place in the new 50,000 square-foot building, and all materials have been moved from Portland, OR, and production has now begun in its new site.

The new facility houses all Hanna equipment manufacturing, assembly, parts department, engineering, purchasing, and quality control.

Jim Coleman Company will manage Hanna's regional and international sales through its Hanna Sales Office in Portland, OR.